BOILLY, Louis-Léopold

La Bassée, near Lille 5.VII.1761 – Paris 5.VI.1845
Painter and engraver. After early training in Douai and Arras (1779), he moved to Paris in 1784 and exhibited popular genre pieces in the open Salons from 1791. He signed the petition to have Vigée Le Brun's name removed from the list of émigrés (1799). The instances of pastel in this very prolific artist's work (he claimed in 1840 to have produced more than 5000 portraits) are infrequent, although there may be some examples in coloured chalk. A few from the nineteenth century are in a style similar to that of his son Jules (1796–1874) by his second wife, née Adélaïde-François-Julie Leduc. However Boilly is a sought-after name which can attract attributions, particularly of ambiguously monogrammed works.
