GOLTZIUS, Hendrik

Venlo 1558 – Haarlem 1617

The Dutch painter and printmaker made some fine drawings in coloured chalk on blue paper. Meder places this work in the 1580s and to the period of Goltzius's trip to Italy in 1590–91. He probably refers to sheets such as the striking self-portrait, now thought to date to c.1593, in the Albertina, which uses watercolour and gouache as well as chalk, but not it seems pastel. Barrow (probably citing Alexander Browne), says that he had seen "little pieces extremely well done... (the faces about the bigness of a Jacobus) and also some done by the same hand in Crayons, which at a small distance you would have taken for limning. Some he drew upon the rough side of velum, and some on the smooth side of parchment, being rubb'd in with small stubbed pencils, and finished with sharp pointed red or black chalk. His crayons were about the length of a finger, and about the thickness of a goose quill."
