

Neil Jeffares, Dictionary of pastellists before 1800

Online edition

GRAFTON, John

fl. London, South Carolina 1774

The Grafton who sent a flower piece to the Royal Academy in 1774 from 121 Blackman Street, London may be the artist known from an advertisement in the South Carolina and American general gazette of 4.XI.1774, where he is described as “Portrait Painter, late pupil to Sir Joshua Reynolds, of Leicester-Fields, London.... he is in every respect qualified, to Teach Drawing, and will engage to make any Person that has had some instruction in Drawing, or has at least Genius for Painting, capable of taking their own, or any Person’s likeness with Crayons in less than three months.”

Bibliography

Rutledge 1949; Waterhouse 1981

Pastels

A flower piece, crayons, Royal Academy 1774, no. 105