

Neil Jeffares, Dictionary of pastellists before 1800

Online edition

HONNETE, Jean-François

Blâmont 1735 – Frankfurt c.1793

Also Honnête; self-taught pastellist and miniaturist. He moved from his native Lorraine to Frankfurt am Main in 1762 where he married and became a citizen. In 1763 he made several trips to Vienna to make portraits of members of the imperial family and other nobles. He also worked in Mainz and Bruxelles (1782). During the Revolution he fled to The Netherlands. Faber credits him with the invention of wax pastel. The only known example is similar to the work of a fellow Lorrain, Huin (q.v.).

Bibliography

Bénézit; Biehler 1861; Börsch-Supan 1988; Brieger 1921; Johann Heinrich Faber, Topographische, politische und historische Beschreibung der Reichs- Wahl- und Handelsstadt Frankfurt am Mayn, Frankfurt, 1788, 1, p. 422; Füßli 1806; Gwinner 1862, p. 296; Lemoine-Bouchard 2008; Nagler 1835–52; Schidlof 1964–65

Pastels

CAROLINE Felicitas von Nassau-Usingen, née Gräfin von Leiningen-Dachsburg (1734–1810), pstd, 48x41.1, sd v “Honnête Hort 1770” (Eichenzell, Schloß Fasanerie, inv. 511) φ