HUTCHISON, Joseph

Dublin 1747 – Bath 1830

Hutchison, Hutchisson, or Hutchinson is identified by Foskett as Joseph Hutchison of Bath. He trained at the Dublin Society schools from 1764, and was apprenticed to G. Carncross, an heraldic painter. He went to London c.1790, made portrait and animal pictures in oil and crayon, and exhibited miniatures at the Royal Academy 1792–1819 from various addresses. He was in Bath from 1795 until his death in 1830. There may be a confusion with another Joseph Hutchison who entered the Royal Academy schools in 1795 aged 34.
